What is the London Good Food Box?

The London Good Food Box is a neighbourhood-based food distribution system that provides a variety of seasonal delicious, and nutritious vegetables and fruits at an affordable price.

The London Good Food Box is committed to creating socially, and economically sustainable neighborhoods by offering affordable, fresh vegetables and fruits through collective purchasing and making them available throughout London.

How much does a box cost?

Due to the impact of collective buying power we are able to offer the box, which would normally sell for $13-$15, for only $10.

What is in the London Good Food Box?

Each month, the selection of produce in the boxes changes depending on what's in season and reasonably priced. Everyone receives the same selections of produce. Below are some examples of what you might get during each season:

- Winter – apples, cabbage, carrots, beets
- Spring- spinach, strawberries, peppers
- Summer- blueberries, cherries, beans
- Fall- cranberries, pears, parsnip, squash

How do I get my box?

We welcome box orders from anyone who wants to support the program and improve their budgets. Just call or visit your nearest Good Food Box distributor to sign up. You can order more than one food box.

Orders and payment are due one week prior to each pick-up date. Food Box orders are picked up on the last Wednesday of the month.
